

THE Traveling Man

From his home in Wyoming, to college in South Dakota, to a study abroad trip to Australia, senior Regan Diller has made the most of his college experience. Next stop, The Real World.

Regan Diller, is a senior Business Communication and Sport Management major from Casper, Wyo.

Q. What are you involved in on campus?

A. I'm involved in Colleges Against Cancer, PRSSA (Public Relations Student Society of Americ) and Augustana Men's Club Soccer. I serve as a New Student Orientation (NSO) Leader and on the UBG Events Committee.

Q. Is it hard to get involved?

A. Not at Augustana College. There is something for every student to be a part of.

Q. Why did you choose Augustana?

A. I figured if I had to be away from home for four years I needed to be at a place that felt as close to home as possible.

Q. Have you studied abroad?

A. I spent last January in Australia. It was the best month of my life! I went bungee jumping, scuba diving on the Great Barrier Reef and saw a show in the Sydney Opera House!

Q. What are your plans for after graduation?

A. I'll try to find a job doing public relations or community relations.

Q. How many colleges did you consider? How did you finally decide on Augustana?

A. I looked at four or five other schools all around the United States. After my visit, I felt that this was the place for me.

Q. Do your classes challenge you?

A. Yes. All of my classes make me work hard to grasp the concepts and be able to apply them to real life situations. Most of the professors have come from professions in the "real world" so they can use real life examples instead of just reading out of the book.

Q. Who is your favorite professor?

A. Dr. Michael Mullin, History. His class was both challenging and fun. Also my academic advisor, Professor Brandon Barkus, is great. He has made being successful in college a breeze. He has helped me to stay motivated while guiding me to a successful future.

Q. Have you gotten to know your professors outside the classroom?

A. Yes. Many professors come to different events around campus. It is pretty common to see multiple professors at Chapel every day or at the basketball games. Also, professors are involved in groups around campus. Dr. Nitz and I have become friends outside of his class because of his involvement in PRSSA.
